[Additional information: https://brandenburg.museum-digital.de/object/37389 vom 2024/03/28]

Erbengemeinschaft nach Fürst Pückler bei der Stiftung Fürst-Pückler-Museum Park und Schloss Branitz [CC BY-NC-SA]

Object:	"Temple of Seboua"
Museum:	Stiftung Fürst-Pückler-Museum Park und Schloss Branitz Robinienweg 5 03042 Cottbus 0355-75150 info@pueckler-museum.de
Collection:	Sammlung Pückler
Inventory number:	o. Nr.

Description

The watercolor drawing is very likely from Prince Pückler himself. Pictured is the temple of Seboua (today: Wadi es-Seboua or Wadi as-Subu) in the Nubian desert (today Sudan). In the background you can see a pylon of the Amun temple, built by Ramses II (around 1303 BC - 1213 BC). In front of it are two rows of sphinxes with lion bodies and two statues of the pharaoh. The drawing is labeled on the back with "Ludmilla Assing Zg. FPM". They were created between March and June 1837.

Basic data

Material/Technique:	Paper
Measurements:	Height: 17.8-18 cm, width: 26 cm

Events

Drawn	When	1837
	Who	Hermann, Fürst von Pückler-Muskau (1785-1871)
	Where	Wadi es-Sebua
[Relationship to location]	When
	Who
	Where	Schloss Branitz

Keywords

- Pharaoh

- Temple